Brief Description of Institution

Isfahan University of Technology (IUT) is one of the leading technical universities located in the heart of the industrial heart of Iran, providing an opportunity to strengthen the industrial enhancement of the country. A pleasant environment in the province of Isfahan all year round has created an excellent atmosphere for agricultural productivity. The university plays a major role in increasing productivity, research, and development. During the activity of the university for nearly 50 years, hard-working faculty and administrators have turned this institution into a highly competitive learning and research institution that is well-recognized locally and internationally. IUT as an institution of higher education was established to satisfy the need to educate the youth in the central part of the Islamic Republic of Iran, in service to society, and the advancement of knowledge. Currently, IUT has more than 10000 students of which about 4400 are involved at the graduate level. IUT comprises the College of Agriculture and fifteen departments including different branches of Engineering, Basic Sciences, and Natural Resources. All of our departments encompass relevant areas of teaching and research. We are fortunate to attract high-quality students from all over the country. Many of our graduates actively participate as managers or engineers in advancing Iran.
